Numb. 1873

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1942

F Human Affairs were entirely subject to Human Wisdom, then it would be but just that every Man shoule be accountable for the Success as well as the Reasonableness of his Designs. The Rule, I say, would be right, and the Expectation reasonable. But since we know it to be quite otherwise, since Human Abilities is to mean ho-

Support of that Cause we have successfully maintain'd, viz. the Balance of Power of that Independence of Europe, and this notwithstanding are not altogether what they have alone in this Disposition, we have like Temper in any of our Neighbours, or intent upon their Consequences, or intent upon their own quiet Spectators of the most quiet, and have shewn an Apprehension of themselves disturb'd. The Queen's Distractions, her pathetick, her passion have had no Effect, and indeed have been apt to feel for others, when they for themselves; or attentive to the Neighbours, when they are blind to all that was possible for us to do by an inclination to do more, if other obligations would by their Concurrence power. This is certain, this is noted want not some who would charge our Want of Concern, those Difficulties under which the Friends of Liberty labour. Cruel and unjust Accusation! breath'd out by those who if we had gone farther would have charged us with Rashness, Knight-Errantries, Want of Concern for our own Interest, and Want of Tenderness of the Nation. To endeavour to refute such a Charge would be ridiculous; it would be little better than undertaking to shew that at Noon the Sun shines, or that the Days are long at Midsummer. We will, however, put the Matter on a short Issue. Let them shew us which of the Friends of the House of Austria has done so much, and we will readily confess that we have done too little. To say this has had no Effect, that the Queen of Hungary has not been relieved, that the Affairs of Europe are not in a better Posture, is to upbraid us with what we cannot help and certainly there is as little of Wisdom or Justice, as there is of Tenderness or Mercy, in converting our Misfortune into an Impeachment. Men of Candour and Generosity are always sorry in such Cases, and none but the Envious and Malicious have a Thought of insulting those, who after exerting their utmost Force have found themselves disappointed in the Event.

Could we suppose it possible that any Doubts should remain in the Minds of intelligent Persons as to the Spitefulness of those who now breathe out Reflections against the Conduct of the K— and his Ministers, could I say any judicious, any well-meaning Man retain the smallest Diffidence on this Head, he might be convinc'd by advertizing only to the Treatment the same Sort of People have given to those who have acted quite another Part. Our Malecontents, if you will believe them, are the warmest Friends to the House of Austria; and if the old Observation be true, That Renegadoes never turn by halves, they must be so, since in all Mens Remembrance they were that Family's most bitter Enemies: But being now their Friends, and having the tenderest Concern for the Queen of Hungary, how comes it to pass that they observe the utmost Decency, the deepest Respect, whenever they speak of her Enemies, and never are zealous enough in her Cause to lose that Concern which is due to good Manners but when they speak of us who are her Friends? Prussia, France, Bavaria are all great Princes, profound Politicians, have Courage and Capacity to espouse their own Interest; and yet these are they who spoil the House of Austria, and are the Authors of those Mischiefs for which Europe groans. Strange! that such Civility is due to them, and none at all to us who alone, of all the Queen of Hungary's Allies, have openly exclaim'd against the ill Usage she has met with, and shewn a earnest a Desire as was consistent with our own Safety of resisting her Enemies or revenging her Wrongs, or arming in support of our Treaties, and in defence of the Liberties of Europe.

Is it possible to account for this strange Behaviour? is there any Way in the World of reconciling Zeal for the House of Austria, with Rancour towards its Friends?— Certainly there is but one Way, and that is, by supposing their Friendship feign'd, and their Rancour real. In this Case, the former is only another Method of displaying the latter: To have attack'd the Government openly at so critical a Juncture, would have been doing it a Service; it woudt have shewn Men in their true Colours, that the Friends and Enemies of their Country could never afterwards have been confounded. But the Policy was deep, the Measure worthy of the Party; to become Bigots to the House of Austria and avow'd Enemies to France, in order to fix the contrary Characters on the Administration. This was Art, this was Address, and it must be own'd the Actors have play'd their Parts with wonderful Spirit and Decorum. But even their Care in this Particular has been fatal to them, for it has discover'd to every penetrating Spectator that they were — but Actors Persons in earnest are too thoroughly prompted by Nature, to have Recourse to Art. Men who are really griev'd speak the Language of Passion, not of Policy. In short, if our Malecontents had been so thoroughly vex'd at the Misfortunes of the Queen of Hungary, they would unquestionably have vented their Resentments in Exclamations against her Oppressors, against those who have leagu'd together for her Destruction, and not in bitter Reflections against her Friends, who have done for her all that their Circumstances would permit. This I say, they would have done if they had been in earnest, and their not doing it is a full Proof that they are not in earnest, that as I said at the Beginning their Grief is pretended and their Rancour real, that their Mourning is mere Hypocrify, but their Murmuring the Language of their Hearts.

Happy would it be for this Nation if I should be mistaken in my Conjectures, if it should appear that these Folks are truly what they seem, and sincerely what they profess; we should then see a new Face of Things, the present dreary Prospect would clear up, and we should discern Land tho' at a distance. In this Case, all Parties would unite in the Service of their Country, in remedying what is past, and in providing for our future Safety. We should then exert ourselves in the Cause of Liberty, and vindicate the Freedom of Europe; we should no longer complain of the Want, or of the Distrust of our Allies, our Union at home would knit to us the Powers abroad, and we should be quickly in a Condition to give Check to those who now pretend to give Laws to Christendom: These I say would be the Glorious Effects of true Patriotism and zealous Union; and therefore if we do not see these Effect we must doubt that the Cause is wanting, how strong soever Peoples Professions may be. In Politicks as well as in Religion we are to judge of Mens Faith by their Works; and if these contradict each other, we ought to lay no great Stress on both. Warm Protestations, bold Assertions, outrageous Invectives cost little; there never was a Party so desperate as to be without, and very few who were desperate have been ashame'd of these Resources. But to be sensible of publick Danger, to feel the Miseries of one's Country, and in consequence of these generous Sensations to suffer a Patriot Spirit to overcome Private Prejudice, and to resolve to sacrifice all narrow Considerations to National Safety, is what few Parties can boast. That we may be agreeably disappointed by the taking of such a Step, such a wise such a seasonable Step by all the Parties amongst us, would satisfy the Minds as well as exceed the Expectations of all true Friends to their King and Country, and raise the drooping Spirits of those who wish well to the Liberties of Europe abroad.

These I confess are nice and dangerous Subjects, Subjects which a Man in my Station ought to be afraid of handling, and of which I should never presume to treat if I did not prefer my Country's Interest to my own. While other Publick Papers are fill'd with Charges not only against Ministers, but their Masters; while every private Man who is out of humour, thinks himself at liberty to appeal from the Government to the People; and while the common Discourse in our Times runs in a higher Strain than the Language in Parliaments ever rose to in the Days of our Ancestors, I surely may be allow'd to speak my Mind as well as other Men. All I have offer'd is submitted with great Sincerity, and a just Sense of my own Inabilities, to the candid Decision of the Publick; and as I have nothing in view but the promoting the Peace and Prosperity of my Country, so I hope my Discourses will not be the worse receiv'd for their not being adorn'd with the fashionable Ornaments of private Scandal and personal Reflections. The Matters now upon the Carpet are of such mighty Moment, and the Resolutions we are to take, of such critical Importance, that I should esteem it a Kind of Treason against the People, to mix any Suggestions in favour or to the Prejudice of any Party, in Addresses to the Publick at such a time.

The Garland Man of War, Capt. Godalve, from Lisbon, arriv'd at Gibraltar the 15th of November.
The Sally Bailey, from Jamaica for London, was well off of Plymouth the 1st instant.
On Monday last died at his House in Whitecross Street, George Terry, Esq; an eminent Tobacconist and one of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the County of Middlesex.

Yesterday Mr. Kirkman, an eminent Silkman in Friday-street, was married at St. Paul's to Miss Elton, a Daughter of Mr. Deputy Elton in Milk-street; a young Lady of fine Accomplishments and a Fortune of 5000l.

The Number of the above-said 10000 l. was bought and Register'd at Mr. Wilson's Office, Charing-Cross; and we are well assur'd that it did not fall to Dr. Sayer, Son-in-Law to the Archbishop of Canterbury, as was mentioned in one of the Evening Papers last Night, but to another Gentleman.

On Monday Night last died at his Chambers in Lincoln's-Inn, Richard Hollings, Esq; an eminent Counsellor at Law, Sollicitor-General to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

He was Son to the late eminent Physician Dr. Hollings, and some Time since married the Daughter of the Lord Chief Justice Willes, of the Court of Common-Pleas, by whom he has left Issue one Son.

Last Night her Grace the Duchess Dowager of Marlborough lay so dangerously ill at Marlborough-houſe St. James's, that her Life is despair'd of.

Yesterday Morning died Mr. King of Furnival's-Inn-Court, an eminent Attorney at Law belonging to the Sheriff's Office.

Last Night Sir Charles Wills, Knight of the Bath, Member of Parliament for Torness in Devonshire, and Colonel of the First Regiment of Foot-guards, lay dangerously ill, being attended by several Physicians.

Yesterday the Sessions ended at the Old Bailey, when twenty-five Persons were try'd, of whom one was capitally convicted; viz. Margaret Watson, for privately stealing a Watch from the Person of William Head.

Ten were cast for Transportation, and fourteen acquitted.

The ten Persons mentioned in our former, with the above Person received Sentence of Death, and nine were ordered to be whipp'd.

Patriot Proceedings.

The present State of the so much boasted COALITION, is by some refined Politicians compared to the Feet of Nebuchadnezzar's Image—which were of Iron and Clay.

The Gazetteer quoted as the best Authority in the Champion,—but to preserve the usual Consistency of the Paper—it is abused as formerly in the Puffs.

A London Evening remarkably still and cool.

B A N K R U P T S.

Philip Pledger and Richard Pledger, late of Leadenhall-street, Linnen-drapers, Chapman and Copartners.

Thomas Bubb, late of Strowd, in the County of Gloucester, Clothier.

Angelick Snuff.

THE most Noble COMPOSITION in the World, instantly removing all Manner of Disorders the Head and Brain, easing the most excruciating Pain in Moment; taking away all Swimming or Giddiness, proceeding from Vapours, or any other Cause; also Drowing Sleepiness, and all other Lethargick Effects; perfectly cure Deafness to Admiration, and all Humours or Scrofes

the Eyes, wonderfully strengthening them when weak.

It certainly cures Catarrhs or Detusions of Rheum, remedies the most grievous Tooth-ach in an Infant;

excellently beneficial in Apoplectic Fits, and Falls Sickness, and assuredly prevents those Distempers; cor-borates the Brain, comforts the Nerves, and revives Spirits.

Its admirable Efficacy in all the above-mentioned Causes has been experienced above a thousand Times, and justly causes it to be esteem'd the most beneficial Snuff the World, being good for all Sorts of Persons: And as of the above-mentioned Disorders are sudden, and the Remedy by no means tedious, as speedy, no Family ought to be out it, nor ever will when they have once used it.

It is to be had only of the Gentlewoman at the Sign of Crown over against the Church in Coleman-street near the Side London, at One Shilling a Paper, with printed Directions at large.

The only true Specifick Tincture

For the TOOTH-ACH, and all Disorand Defects of the TEETH and GUMS whatever, which but such instant Satisfaction to the Natura and Gouty for about Twenty Years past, by its rapidly愈ing all other Tings, formerly invented or lately contriv'd for such Purpose.

SINCE one Drop of it gives fallible and instant Ease in the most tormenting Pain, nothing else will, and not only takes it away in a Moment, absolutely cures the TOOTH-ACH, so as certainly to preserve.

At only once using it makes the foulish Teeth white white, assuredly fishes those that are loose, and instantly serves the Teeth from growing rotten, and shade a fine say'd, from becoming worse: It perfectly cures the Sore the Gums, causing them to grow up to the Teeth again miraculously, and also occasions a Sweet Breath.

It is neither disagreeable to the Smell or Taste, but easily preserves the Teeth and Gums from all Manner of Corruption, and Putrefaction, keeps them sound, good in most beautiful Order, and may be depended upon to the Character here given of it, literally, and in every Part as Persons innumerable have experienced.

But these Inimitable Qualities, and solely inherent Vi-b, which it has fully gain'd such as universal and imp-great character, have occasion'd, as usual in such cases, various frequent Endeavours to mimick it, some under the same and in the very Words of this Advertisement, and others other Names; he care ul, therefore, to have the right may be intitlably relied upon, and which is to be had only the Author's Appointment, of the Gentlewoman, in the Blue-Post, in Haydon-Yard, in the Minories, London, at a Boule, with Directions.

Good Allowance to those who take it.

Williamsburg in Virginia, Sept. 11.

N Sunday last a Spanish Privateer Sloop, with 56 Men, and Guns proportionable, took Capt. Clack, sen. near our Capes, in a Ship bound from London to James River, very richly laden with European Goods: And the same Night took another Ship bound from Plymouth to Maryland, with Goods to the Value of about 1000 l. Sterling. The two Sloops fitted out by this Colony, and to guard our Coasts, being return'd from a Cruize, and lying in our Lynhaven Bay, heard and saw the Firing of the Spanish Privateer and the Plymouth Ship, and immediately weigh'd Anchor, and endeavour'd to get out of the Capes to them; but the Wind not favouring, only Capt. Goodman could get out, and that with great Difficulty, by Rowing. He however came up with the Plymouth Ship that Night, and re-took her, and brought her into Hampton the next Day, with the Mate and three Sailors belonging to her, and ten Spaniards which the Privateer had put aboard her. The Wind blew very hard, and the Sea was so rough, that it was a long Time before Capt. Goodman could board her. It seems he warmly pepper'd her Sides. Capt. Goodman would have pursu'd the Spanish Privateer and his Prize, Capt. Clack; but the Roughness of the Weather, the Darkness of the Night, and the Spaniard and Prize altering their Course, and taking in their Lights, render'd it improbable for him to pursue them to any Purpose. The Spanish Privateer was fitted out at the Savannah, from whence they had been but seventeen Days. The ten Spaniards are to be brought up from Hampton to this Place, and remain here Prisoners of War, till they can be conveniently shipp'd off to England, to be exchang'd.

On Tuesday last the Hector Man of War, Sir Yelverton Peyton Commander, sailed on a Cruize; and took under his Convoy several homeward-bound Ships.

TWO HUMOROUS NOVELS, viz:

1. A diverting Dialogue between Scipio and Bercano, two Dogs belonging to the Hospital of the Resurrection in the City of Valladolid: Giving an Account of their Lives and various Adventures: interspers'd with their Reflections and Sentiments on the Lives, Characters, Humours and Employments of the different Masters they liv'd with.

2. The comical History of Kinconce and Cortadillo.

Both written by the celebrated Author of Don Quixote, and now first translated from the Spanish Original.

3. The famous Monk Thier, so well known to the learned World, in his ingenious Letter on the Origin of Romances, speaks of this Dialogue of the Dogs as equal to some of the most celebrated Pieces of Antiquity, and the same pleasant Vein of Humour appears throughout them both, as in his so much admir'd History of Don Quixote.

R eligion One, even the self-same Thing, in all Ages, in all Places, in all Persons. Or a serious Attempt to shew what True Religion is, abstracted from all Accidents and all Circumstances: Applied to Paganism, Judaism, Christianity, and Mahometanism. Together with Scriptural and Rational Directions how to attain it, Cautions, Exhortations, &c. peculiarly adapted to Christianity.

Intended to awaken in the unthinking Part of Mankind a suitable Concern about their present and future Felicity; but more especially to give the serious Inquirer a clear and succinct Knowledge of his Duty to God and Man, without the Labour, Cost, and Perplexity of procuring and reading the various and voluminous Writings upon this most important Subject. Clear of all Controversy: And adapted not only to inform the less knowing, but to regulate and settle the confused and fluctuating Thoughts of those who have used many Books on religious Subjects, without attaining any clear and proper Idea of what is essential to true Religion, and what is only Circumstantial to it.

Printed for Jacob Robinson, at the Golden Lion in Little

To Persons of either Sex

Afflicted with any Species of the PALSY, or other NERVOUS DECAYS.

NEVER were NERVOUS DISEASES, PALSY, and PARALYTICK DISORDERS so frequent as of late they have been, nor have the usual Remedies been found adequate to those pertinacious Distempers: This occasioned a Physician, who employ'd his Thoughts much concerning them, to adapt a Medicine, a Sovereign Elixir, peculiar to, and effectual for, the Palsy, and all other nervous

Complaints now reigning, which after he had experienced on vaast Numbers of Persons of both Sexes, and always with surprizing Success, even so as infallibly to cure by it, the Palsy, and all Paralytick Effects and Nervous Disorders, he permitted it to be made publick for a general Good, that to those labouring under these miserable Aliments, might know where to meet with a safe and most certain Cure, which is accomplit in so short a Time, and with such Ease and Pleasure (a few Drops of it being a Dose, highly agreeable to the Palate, and comforting to the Stomach, and Bowels) as is almost incredible to relate.

But the taking one Bottle of it only, demonstrates its prodigious Efficacy to every one, and the Patients soon and all Numbers, Deadness, and Shaking, or Resolution of the Nerves, as well as all convulsive, cramp-like, or painful

Contractions of them, vanish and return no more; and this, though these Diseases have been of many Years standing, and whether occasioned by long Illness, fast Living, hard Drinking, or any other Cause; for it performs all that can be wish'd for in Nervous Cases, creates an Appetite, expels Wind, rectifies the Digestion, occasions laudable Chyle, attenuates the Blood and Juices, causes a free and regular Circulation of

'em thro' the Capillary Vessels, revives and increases the Spirits, warms, comforts, strengthens, and replenishes the Brain and whole Nervous System, hence the Sins, Tendons,

Ligaments, and all the enfeebled Parts are invigorated, the Limbs restored to their pristine Steadiness and Strength, and the Palsy and all Paralytick Disorders and Nervous Decayes themselves, and all about them.

This sovereign and incomparable Elixir is permitted to be sold only at Mrs. Holt's, at the Cross-Keys and Star in Cornhill, near Stock's Market, at 3s. 6d. a Bottle, with printed Directions.
